A decade as a successful business owner and four years as Executive Director of the Downtown Stockton Alliance have convinced me that we truly can live, work and play in a City that is safe, clean, energized by full employment and one where our children get good educations.

I will bring new energy, steadfast courage and action-oriented management to Stockton’s City Council.

Stockton has made many strides in recent years, but we are still plagued with low graduation rates, a drug epidemic, graffiti, high crime, gangs and an over-crowded jail. Because these aspects of our community are linked, we can break the cycle. But to accomplish these systemic improvements, new partnerships must be fostered and creative funding developed.

As your Councilmember, another top priority will be to support educational and economic opportunities to raise the quality of life for all of our children, so they choose to remain in Stockton.

Most importantly, I will listen and make decisions within a context of building coalitions, replacing cynicism with shared vision, and managing resources for intelligent growth.
